To Patrol Behring Sea.

The navy department has practically decided to withdraw two vessels from the Asiatic station for patrol service in Behring sea during the sealing season. These are the gunboat Petrel and the cruiser Alert. The old Adams at Mare Island may be pressed into service and sent across to Asia to take the Alert's place, as it is thought she can stand a trip over Pacific's waters on her journey, while an experience in the northern limits of Behring sea might prove disastrous to a vessel of her class. The sealing fleet this year will consist of the same number of vessels as that of last season, when Captain Evans was in command. It will consist most probably of the Petrel, the Alert, Ranger, Bear, Albatross, Rush and Corwin-two naval vessels, one fish commission steamer, and four revenue marine ships. The commanding officer of the fleet of little vessels has not yet been determined upon, nor has the date of

With the Alert and Petrel detached from the Asiatic station there will be only three vessels left to look after American intereststhe Lancaster, flagship, Marion and old Monocacy. But after the review one or two modern vessels will no doubt be sent out to add to the United States representation-Washington Star.
